

What the... where the hell i'm...what is this...i need mine drivers...

Written by Vlask
Sunday, 31 January 2010 17:19

---

This is old archived version of pages and is no longer updated. Please visit new site at www.vgamuseum.info

Adding of new comments is disabled same as creating new users. Site might contain outdated and wrong informations. I mean it, rather go visit new site.

Welcome to mine personal graphic cards online museum. These pages reflects mine personal collection of graphic cards. I've started collecting em some years ago, because i like collecting old junk. I'm probably geek and internet is filled with CPU webs, but its hard find any about graphic cards. So i decided to make one. I started on Phprs engine and been using it few years, but with increasing numbers of cards, i needed better system with better searching features. Well this one isn't i hoped for, but its still better than old pages.

So here you can find tons of photos of old cards and some basic info about them. I'm trying also get bios from working cards. But keep in mind, that i'm using dumpbios NSSI dos utility, so better don't try to flash em to your card - seems to me like a fastest way to hell for your card. Bioses are there only for educational purposes - i'm often checking them for bios compiling date and card name. Also i'm doing some basic benchmarks, so if you wanna know which card would be best for your nostalgic old DOS gaming PC, head there.

On this site you'll find also collection of Palcal and Zaatharen - they are also card collectors from Czech Republic same as me. Newest collector on site is Pirx from Germany.

If you wanna help, i'd always like to have more informations about cards. Under each article is comment option. Feel free to use them, if you know any missing information, you found nice article about card or you think that i have any info wrong (memory size is often hard to guess for me).

What the... where the hell i'm...what is this...i need mine drivers...

Written by Vlask

Sunday, 31 January 2010 17:19

---

IF YOU LOOKING FOR DRIVERS, SORRY NO DRIVERS HERE

For drivers go to www.driverguide.com or www.driverzone.com

PS: as you already must noticed, i'm not from native english country, so sorry for mine english.

PPS: Guestbook aka Spambook has been deleted (spammers seems to liked it too much).